

CAT AFTER MOUSE UPSET CHAIR THAT BROKE A WINDOW

Crash of Glass Got Policeman Quickly on the Job, But There Was No Holdup.

SINCE the robbery at the Hotel Astor last week when the police were notified by the breaking of a window and the showering of a traffic policeman with its fragments, the police have kept their ears attuned to the tinkle of glass. It was only a few nights later at 5.30 o'clock when Patrolman Patrick Stanton, standing in front of No. 1234 Broadway, was startled by the crash of pane of glass on the sidewalk.

Looking up he saw a big hole in the window of R. Sandowsky's tailor shop. He beat it up the four flights with his nightstick clinched in his fist. Those who followed him found the cutting room quiet, but the marks of a struggle were seen in overturned bolts of cloth and chairs, and one chair half way out the broken window. In vain the cop looked for some signs of life and then out of the darkness there pranced a big maltese cat with a mouse in his mouth.

The cat in his chase of the mouse had knocked over the chair, which was on a table, breaking the window. Patrolman Stanton said something not set down in the book of rules.

18 PASSENGERS CUT AS CAR JUMPS RAILS

Trolley Demolishes Fulton Street "L" Pillar, Causing Forty-Five-Minute Tie-Up.

Eighteen passengers were shaken up and cut by glass at 5.45 A. M. today when a trolley of the Long Island Traction Company jumped the rails at Liberty and Forth Avenue, East New York, and collided with a pillar of the B. R. T.'s Fulton Street elevated line, demolishing the pillar.

Though the motorman, William Miller, and the conductor, Edward Stevens, of the trolley car, were severely cut by glass, they refused to go to the hospital. The impact of the collision threw most of the passengers, who were on their way from Hempstead to Grand Avenue, there to transfer to Manhattan, from their seats in some had to receive medical attention.

The B. R. T. had to put up a temporary support for its weakened structure, which caused a delay of forty-five minutes to trains on that line.

SAYS PURITANS BROKE LAW.

Dr. Grant Declares There Is Evidence Pilgrims Were Human.

The Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, Rector of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, declared in his sermon yesterday that the Pilgrims "were practically law-breakers."

"They were very obstreperous about paying their taxes," he said, "and finally they tried to leave England, although there was a law against leaving without a permit. They were sewing seeds politically against England. In the Colony of Plymouth the people were not married or buried by clergymen, but by the civil magistrates. Also there were divorces in Plymouth and there were other evidences that the Pilgrims were human beings."

Dr. Grant said he had received a letter from the Sabbath Association advocating a return to the Puritan Sunday.
